Pro, Anti-New Deal Dems Feud Heads For Showdown At Hearing

CHICAGO (AP)—A growing feud between the pro and anti New Deal wings of the Democratic party headed for a pre-convention showdown today at hearings on contested Texas and Mississippi delegates.

Barkley Suport Reported From Illinois Delegates

Russell Denounces Taft-Hartley Law, Draws Southern Ire

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Alben W. Barkley pulled a stride forward today in his race for the Democratic presidential nomination with reports he will get some first ballot support from Illinois.

While all candidates jockeyed for position in advance of the opening of the 31st Democratic Nominating Convention Monday, there were signs that Jacob Arvey, Illinois national committeeman, is ready to take a political flyer on the 74-year-old vice president.

Arvey and Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania national committeeman, conferred with Barkley strategists.

There were immediate reports that Arvey had told the Barkley leaders he would use his influence to get as many as possible of Illinois' 60 convention votes lined up for Barkley on the first ballot.

Lawrence was said to have noted that the 70-vote Pennsylvania delegation is split up, but to have indicated that Barkley might count on some votes there.

These developments came during a temporary lull in the seething pre-convention battle over civil rights that might explode into a floor fight.

No less seething were some

Report U. S. May Seize Steel Firms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House was reported today to be seriously considering a plan to seize part of the strike-bound steel industry under the selective service act.

This word came from a high administrative source who said Justice Department attorneys were instructed Thursday afternoon to prepare papers leading to possible partial seizure of the industry.

The critical situation which has resulted from the 47-day steel strike was discussed Thursday at a White House meeting, presided over by Acting Defense Mobilizer John R. Steelman.

The selective service act gives the President power to seize only plants which fail to produce under direct contract with procurement agencies.

The act says "if any such producer of steel or the responsible head or heads thereof refuses to comply with such requirement, the President, through the secretary of defense, is authorized to take immediate possession of the plants of such producer."

President Truman seized the entire steel industry last April 8, but on June 2 the Supreme Court ruled he lacked authority to do so and ordered the mills returned to private ownership. The April 8 seizure was based on no specific law but rather on what the Justice Department said were the President's inherent constitutional powers.

each state went before a credentials subcommittee of the Democratic National Committee to present claims to seats at next week's party convention.

Seventy convention votes are involved—52 from Texas and 18 from Mississippi.

The scrap is between the anti-administration or "Regular" factions in the two Southern states and pro-administration "Loyalist" delegations.

And the fight may go to the convention floor before a final decision is reached.

None of the rival slates from either Texas or Mississippi is committed to any of the announced contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination. But the Regular factions—one headed by Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas and the other by Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi—are said to be favorable to Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia. Shivers has said Russell is his favorite candidate.

The rival Loyalist factions are said to be generally favorable to Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, although Speaker Rayburn, Averell Harriman and Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson have some support. The Texas Loyalist group is headed by former Congressman Maury Maverick; the Mississippi Loyalists by Mrs. John A. Clark, acting national committeewoman.

The rival factions in both states said there was no possibility "of any compromise" of their differences.

The splits occurred when the pro-administration Loyalist factions in each state demanded the anti-administration factions pledge their state electors to support the National Convention's nominee, no matter who he might be or the nature of his platform.

This the regulars refused to do. In fact, the Mississippi state convention is in technical recess and due to be reconvened in early August to determine the state's stand in the November election.

Shivers extended what was regarded as something of an olive branch last night on his arrival in Chicago. He said he would take a pledge of party loyalty if the majority of the Democratic convention requires such a pledge of all delegates. But Shivers added he knew of no such pledge ever being required of national delegates.

"I'll abide by the same rules and regulations that apply to everyone else," the Texas executive told newsmen.

There was some talk among Dixie Democrats that if a New Deal type man is chosen as the party's presidential standard bearer, several Southern states may put Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican party's nominee, as the states' Democratic nominee.

This charge was made in a statement last night by Maverick against the Shivers faction.

Shivers replied that while Gen. Eisenhower is a good man, "he is a Republican," and added:

"I'm interested in nominating the best possible Democrat to run against him." He said Russell is his No. 1 choice.

Saucer Reports Still Unexplained

DAYTON, O. (AP)—A spokesman at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base says the Air Force still has no explanation for 15 per cent of the approximately 1,000 flying saucer reports it has received.

The Dayton Journal-Herald quoted the officer as saying jet fighters equipped with radar have been scrambling into the sky seeking the unidentified objects, but have been unable to make contact with any "saucer."

The newspaper said the officer, connected with Air Force Headquarters for investigation of unidentified aerial objects, asked to remain unidentified.

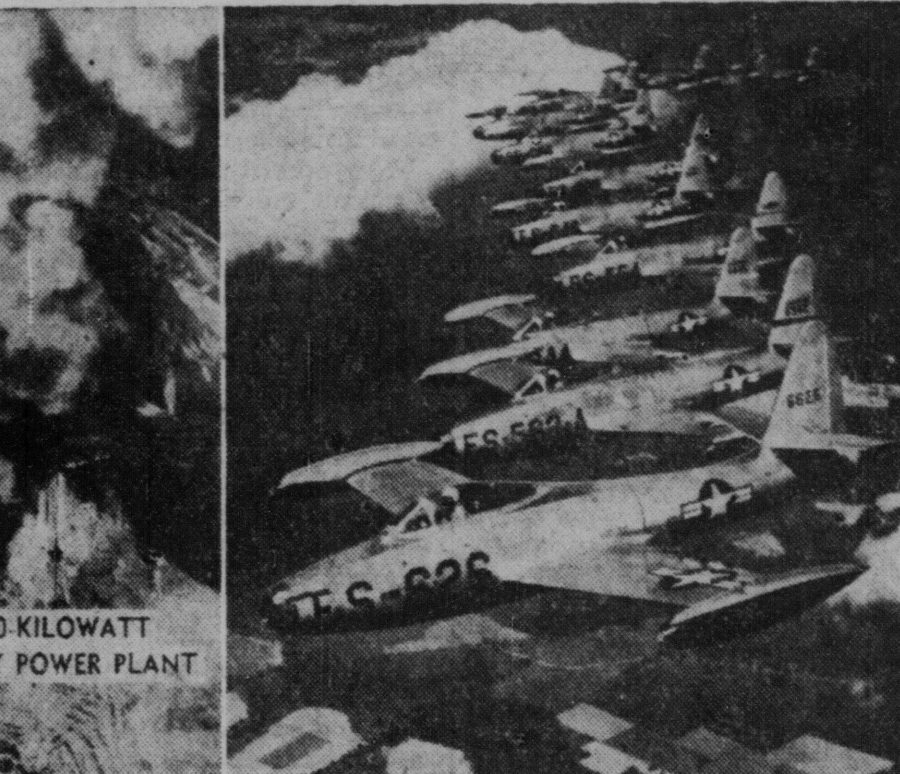

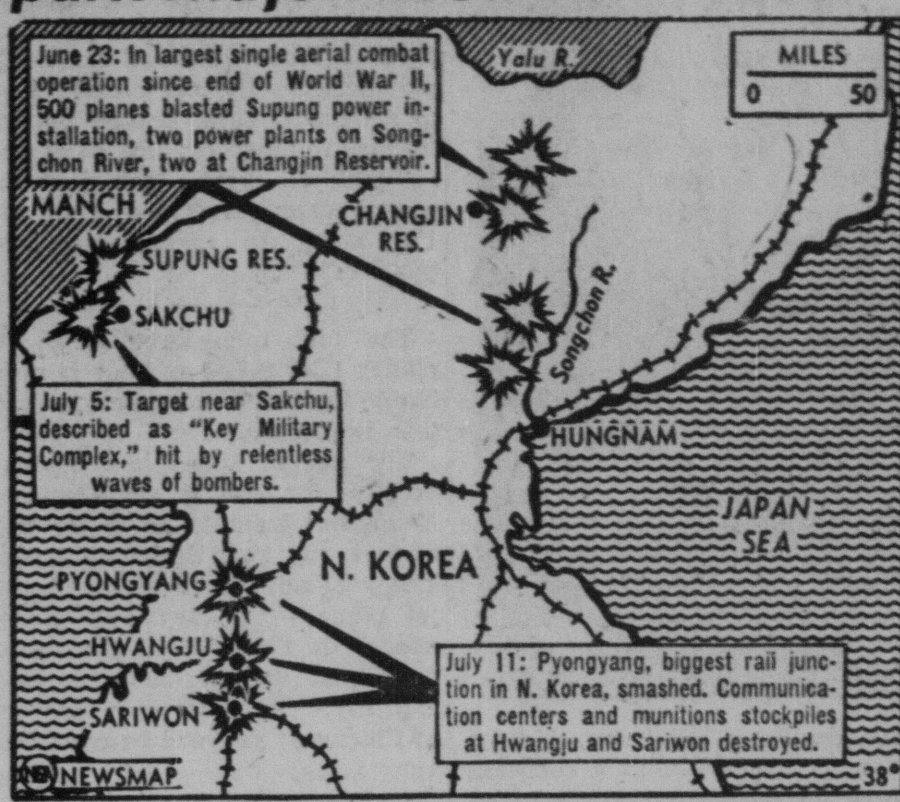

The officer said ground radar has tracked some unexplainable objects traveling at speeds between 1,500 and 2,000 miles an hour, but added there never have been both visual and radar sightings of the same objects.

Capt. E. K. Ruppelt, "saucer" project officer of the Air Technical Intelligence Center, said "we are firmly convinced the persons making these reports actually see something in the skies."

Ruppelt said the Air Force will continue its investigation until all such sightings can be satisfactorily explained.

Air Punch May Spark Major 'Break' In Truce

Allied strategists believe the UN's stepped-up air war in Korea may prove a major factor in ending the Reds' year-long stalling in truce talks. Map at right shows where the enemy has suffered damaging blows recently from fleets of Allied planes. Until June 23, when 500 UN planes kayoed five power plants, the Allies had spared Red hydroelectric plants from air assaults in an effort to show the Chinese no invasion of their territory was threatened. Serving further notice that the Allies will play rough until Communist truce negotiators quit their stubborn stand on the long-deadlocked prisoner exchange issue were the recent statement by Gen. J. Lawton Collins and the mass Thunderjet flight described in layout below.

PROTESTING THE assaults on the 3,000-foot Supung dam (at left), Red truce team chief Gen. Nam Il labeled the raid an attempt to intimidate Communist truce negotiators. Snapped U. S. Army Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins (inset), "If the Communists insist on fighting they're going to be in for some tough bombings." Collins called the recent flight of three squadrons of Thunderjets (at right) from the U. S. to Japan an indication of our growing air strength. The flight of the F-84s was the longest airborne movement of a complete fighter wing.

Seven rural communities in the district will receive dial telephone service next year. These are the communities of Winona, North Georgetown, Homeworth, Hanoverton and East Rochester in Columbia County, Paris in Stark County and Berlin in Holmes County.

Five Rural Communities In County To Get Dial Phones

This was announced today by E. M. Owens, division manager of General Telephone Company of Ohio (formerly Ohio Associated Telephone Company) at New Philadelphia, which operates 138 exchanges in the state.

Owens stated that these communities would be provided dial equipment of the most modern and advanced design of switchin equipment. This equipment is on order from the Leich Electric Co. of Genoa, Ill., and is scheduled for delivery late in the second quarter of next year. It will replace in each instance the present manually operated magneto switchboards.

Buildings To Be Erected Lots are being purchased in each community and new buildings will be erected, the Company spokesman reported.

At Winona the company has replaced and expanded all cable within the Village as well as poles and wire plant throughout the entire rural areas. At Hanoverton, East Rochester, Homeworth and North Georgetown the wire distribution system has likewise been expanded and improved throughout practically all of the exchange areas.

At Homeworth, the company recently placed in service three additional circuits to Alliance and three circuits were also added between Winona and Salem during May.

"Some time will be required to ready the plant distribution facilities, erect the buildings, change all subscriber instruments and install the dial switching equipment," Owens said. "Tentative plans call for the actual cutover to dial service for all seven communities during the third quarter of next year."

Since January of 1950 General Telephone Company has spent $28,000 as of May 31, 1952 in gross additions to its plant and telephones in service have increased during this period through installations from 74,546 to 88,959.

"This year the company will spend an estimated $4,125,000 for construction," Owens said.

Woman Boomed For Dem 'Veep'

Formal Campaign Headquarters Set Up

CHICAGO (AP)—For the first time in the history of a major political party formal campaign headquarters—a complete with American flag, portraits, badges, workers and a water cooler—were opened today for a woman candidate for vice president.

She is India Edwards, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee and director of its Women's Division.

Ordinarily the idea would get the brush-off at this stage of feminine political development—except that India is quite a vocal figure in the party. Men, as well as women, besiege her office for appointments.

In the Democratic convention headquarters, the Conrad Hilton Hotel, there are presidential campaign headquarters for Russell, Kerr, Harriman, Kefauver and others—and now as one steps off the elevator on the third floor there is a big placard:

"Headquarters for India Edwards for vice president."

Mrs. Jennie O'Hern of Moberg, S. D., and Mrs. Frances G. Satterfield, Atlanta, Ga., opened it up and tacked up the portraits of their candidate.

They plan a formal opening later. But even now there is action. Volunteers have come in to do typing, get out press releases, answer phones. The place has all the confusion of any other headquarters.

The movement on behalf of Mrs. Edwards—who has said she doesn't expect to be nominated but will campaign if named—was started in June in New York by a group of prominent Democratic women.

Former Rep. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey is chairman of the national group. The vice chairman is Julia L. Crews, delegate from New York.

There are some important names among Democratic women on the Executive Committee of the "India Edwards for vice president" group. They include:

Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, treasurer of the United States and one of six women who will address the convention; Miss Mary Dewson, former vice chairman of the Dem-

Man Claiming Key To Eternal Life Held For Columbia Killing

NEW YORK (AP)—A fanatic who claims the key to mankind's greatest secret—eternal life—appears in court today, accused of one of mankind's greatest crimes—murder.

Bayard P. Peakes, 29-year-old pseudo-scientist, is to be arraigned in Federal Court, charged with killing pretty Eileen Fahey—a slaying he admitted in a fantastic confession.

He said he killed the 18-year-old blonde stenographer for the American Physical Society because the scientific body had rejected his theories on how to live forever.

He didn't even know her. He had marked eight others for death, but he saw her first.

"I was going to shoot anybody," police quoted him.

Why? police asked.

"It was my book," Peakes whined.

Four persons were injured, one critically, as the result of a two-car collision at 8:50 a.m. today at the intersection of Routes 7 and 14, two miles north of Columbiana.

The cars were operated by Walter Rosensweig, 26, of Tucson, Ariz., who was driving east on Route 14, and Ella Duff, 56, of North Lima, who was going south on Route 7.

The woman driver suffered a severe fracture of the skull and was reported in critical condition at the Salem City Hospital. Rosensweig sustained lacerations and contusions of the right eye and a possible neck injury and was reported in "fairly good" condition at the hospital.

Ethel Roush, 56, of North Lima, a passenger in the Duff auto, suffered lacerations of the scalp and shoulder, abrasions of the body and shock. Her condition is reported as fair. A passenger in the Rosensweig car, John Feeney, 27, of Amarillo, Calif., was treated for shock and lacerations. Two other men in the Rosensweig car were unhurt.

State Highway Patrolmen who investigated the mishap said that full details concerning the crash were not known. After the collision the Rosensweig auto traveled a distance of approximately 20 feet and rolled over off the highway.

The impact threw the other car several feet from where the mishap occurred. Both autos were severely damaged.

90% Parity Farm Support Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman signed into law today a bill continuing government support of prices for cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts at 90 per cent of parity through 1954.

The President said in a statement the new law "is a valuable addition to the agricultural legislation which has been so important in maintaining a strong and stable farm economy and which has contributed so markedly to a much-needed increase in the American standard of rural living."

The law provides parity for these six crops will be determined through 1955 by whichever of two present formulas gives the higher price. The controversial "sliding scale" parity program was set aside for the 1953 and 1954 crop years.

Parity is a price determined by the government to be fair to farmers in terms of things they buy.

Seven Giants Of Industry Cited By Government

Justice Department Readies Both Civil, Criminal Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today prepared a brass-knuckle investigation designed to break up an alleged international oil monopoly by seven giants of the vital industry.

Both criminal and civil proceedings against five American and two foreign oil companies are being worked up by the Justice Department under anti-trust laws, forbidding monopolistic practices, price fixing, and restraint of trade.

Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery told a news conference yesterday that a federal grand jury, sitting here, will shortly start probing into activities of what he called "the international oil cartel."

Start Anti-Trust Suit At the same time, McGranery said his department will institute a civil anti-trust suit against the seven companies in the District of Columbia courts.

The criminal proceedings are designed to punish past offenses. The civil proceedings are designed to prevent any repetition of the same offenses in the future.

McGranery named these firms as involved in the probe: Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, Texas Oil Company, Socony-Vacuum, Gulf Oil—all U. S. owned—and two foreign firms dominated by the British, Royal Dutch Shell and Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

"Record Is Clear"

A spokesman for Standard Oil of California said at San Francisco last night "our record is clear" and that the international operations of its affiliated companies had been "carried on to the best interests of the United States."

There was no immediate comment from any of the other oil companies, either in this country or in London.

However, last week Eugene Holman, president of Standard of New Jersey, said "this company is not a party to illegal arrangements of any kind, including those which would fix prices, allocate markets, or control or restrict production anywhere in the world."

Monopolies Banned

The points Holman mentioned are among those covered by the 62-year-old Sherman-Clayton Anti-Trust Law which bans monopolistic practices and outlaws agreements to fix prices or restrain trade between states or between the U. S. and foreign countries.

Leonard J. Emmert, Justice Department attorney who conducted the government's successful anti-trust suit against the Aluminum Company of America six years ago, was commissioned to go before the grand jury and prosecute the civil action in international oil.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.), currently demanding a congressional investigation of the seven oil firms, said in a public statement two days ago that the group dominates U. S. foreign policy in the Middle East, Indonesia and Venezuela and works together in the pricing field and elsewhere "with the regularity and precision of a fine Swiss watch."

The activities of the group in the international oil field were analyzed in a recent secret report prepared by the Federal Trade Commission's staff.

Unit Rule May Thwart Truman Plan Of Disclosing Favorite

CHICAGO (AP)—A 92-year-old Democratic party tradition may thwart President Truman in his announced intention of disclosing by proxy his choice for this year's presidential nomination.

That tradition is the unit rule—which binds a state delegation to cast all its National Convention votes as a bloc on any issue or candidate.

Truman has said his presidential choice will become known when his alternate, Tom J. Gavin of Kansas City, casts his vote among the various contenders for the Democratic nomination.

But the Missouri delegation is talking of adopting the unit rule. Gov. Forrest Smith has said it probably will be invoked.

But James M. Pendergast, who inherited the powerful Kansas City Democratic organization from his uncle, "Boss Tom" Pendergast, served notice yesterday he will fight any such move.

If Smith has his way, Gavin might want to cast Truman's convention vote for one candidate, but be obligated to vote for somebody else favored by a majority of the Missouri delegation.

Of course, Gavin—or Truman himself—could reveal the Truman choice by the simple device of issuing a statement.

Every Democratic convention adopts its own rules, but past rules are usually accepted with few exceptions. Thus, the unit rule—in effect at successive Democratic conventions since 1860—may be part of the coming convention's regulations.

It has been the consistent practice at past Democratic conventions to require a state delegation to be bound by the unit rule, when that state's Democratic convention has instructed its delegates to vote as a unit.

Under the rule the majority of a delegation decides how to cast all of its convention votes, regardless of the preference of a minority.

Excepted from the rule are a dozen states and the District of Columbia, which choose their National Convention delegates in primary elections. The dozen states are California, Florida, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Delegates from these states are expected to vote the choices indicated in their primaries.

One other exception is provided. The National Convention, by a two-thirds vote, may let a state dispense with the unit rule.

Michigan's 40-vote delegation to next week's convention decided Tuesday against being bound by the unit rule, even though instructed by the state Democratic convention to vote as a unit.

Party officials said Michigan officials probably will have to carry its plea to be exempted to the convention floor.

People in times of great stress always turn to a new hero with a new program. That explains the success of the Democrats during the Roosevelt era.

What makes the political picture in troubled 1952 so interesting is the Democrats still have the program that has been sure-fire for two decades—but the Republicans have cornered a national hero as their candidate.

Government To Fire 6,150 OPS Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has laid out details of how it will fire 6,150 of its 12,000 employees in the Office of Price Stabilization.

This came shortly after Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam told his anti-inflation agencies yesterday to do the best they could with the 60 million dollars Congress gave him. He had requested 103 million.

Putnam said OPS would get $36,900,000, a 45 per cent cut. The remainder will go to enforce rent and wage controls.

OPS said dismissal slips were being sent out and its staff would be cut to budget size by Sept. 1.

The agency said it would release about 700 of 2,500 Washington employees. Field offices are being directed to fire 5,450 of their 9,500 workers.

Legion Women At Convention

District Event Held At Minerva

COLUMBIANA—Firestone American Legion Post Auxiliary was represented at the 10th district convention of the auxiliary at Minerva Wednesday by Mrs. Robert Pat-chen, president, Mrs. Robert Tie-man, secretary, Mrs. Ella Engle and Mrs. Lena Hart. Firestone Auxiliary received an award for its annual Armistice Day membership roll call, having reached its quota at that time.

At its regular meeting Wednesday evening following the district meeting, Firestone Auxiliary decided to make the purchase of more Scott air packs for the fire department its main project this year with funds from the annual magazine campaign. The need of these masks as a protection from chemical fumes was demonstrated at the recent disaster at the North-east Ohio Poultry Association plant.

Janet Reinehr, Columbiana High School junior, who was the auxiliary delegate to Girls' State at Columbus in June, gave an interesting account of the proceedings there. A handkerchief shower was given Mrs. Mary Dowd, immediate past president of the auxiliary, who completed her term last month.

The Columbiana auxiliary will be host for the July meeting of the Columbiana County Council of the auxiliary, which will be held in Pavilion 4, Firestone Park, July 28. There will be a covered dish supper, and Mrs. Ray S. Crockey of Carrollton, president of the 10th district auxiliary, will install the new officers of the County Council.

SCOUTS FROM the Boston Red Sox, Pittsburgh Pirates and Cleveland Indians will be here to witness some of the games in the American Legion junior tournament to open at Firestone Park August 2. The tournament, for Ohio teams of the age of 17 years and under, is sponsored by Firestone Post of Columbiana. The big league scouts will be on the lookout for promising performers.

No formal entries have been made yet, as many of the local junior leagues have not completed their own tournaments. July 28 is the dead line for entries. Don R. Young, post manager of the tournament, is in receipt of a letter from W. L. DeWeese of Columbus, in charge of the Ohio Department of American Legion youth activities, commending Firestone Post for its interest in arranging the tournament.

Boys under 12 years are taking great interest in baseball at Firestone Park under the direction of George Fisher, O. S. U. student. The schedule was lengthened this week for the rest of the season to three forenoons a week, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. The Booster Club, which is sponsoring it, having added Wednesday. A game with an East Paletine team of the same average is scheduled for Firestone Park next Wednesday evening.

The July meeting of the Columbiana Business & Professional Women's Club will be a picnic in Pavilion 3, Firestone Park, at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. Every member is to take covered dish and table service.

Sunset Temple, Pythian Sisters, will have a picnic in Pavilion 1, east, Firestone Park, at 6:30 p.m. July 30, those attending asked to take covered dish service.

Greenford

Open house at the new Locust Grove Baptist parsonage will be held Sunday, July 20 at the parsonage. The house will be open for inspection from 2 to 4:30 p.m. All members and friends of the local church and of other churches in the community are invited to attend. The home is now occupied by Rev. Why Roads Are Expensive

A study showing that owners of light automobiles pay more than twice as much to use highways as owners of heavy trucks is adding to the misery of what used to be called "pleasure-car owners." It has just been released by Citizens Tax League of New York, which is fighting the trucking industry.

If the owner of an ordinary car wants to feel really miserable, however, he should realize that if it were not for the punishment given highways by heavy trucks, road-building would not be so fantastically expensive.

Every motorist can remember at least one ordinary highway which had withstood ordinary light-vehicle use for years yet was pounded to pieces shortly after trucks began to use it. All new roads and all rebuilt roads must be engineered to withstand a beating from trucks weighing as much as 15 times as much as ordinary passenger automobiles. That is why they are so costly.

A sour note is being tooted in every discussion of this problem of how to keep public roads in decent condition without bankrupting the owners of ordinary vehicles. The commercial owners invariably complain that the trucking industry is being attacked when the question of their fair share of cost is raised.

To be sure, the trucking industry can expect no mercy from railroads, which own and pay taxes on their road beds. But it would be smarter if it conceded that the owner of an ordinary automobile willing to pay ordinary fees for the ordinary roads he needs to bear the weight of his car has a case. He is expected to dish out a disproportionately large share of the cost of building a road-bed for commercial rigs weighing upward to 30 tons, when all he really needs is a road that will bear his own two-ton car.

Russia's Best Foot

The State Department pulled the string on USSR Information Bulletin the same day the July issue was being received by readers on its American mailing list. The list included many newspaper offices.

Since this piece of propaganda will be published no longer, because the Soviet Union has been hard-nosed about circulation in its country of America's own slick-paper propaganda, this is an admission that it will be missed.

By noticing what Stalin's dictatorship stressed when it puts its best foot forward, an American could guess what its motives were. All issues of the Information Bulletin stressed the same thing—claims that the Communist party had given Russians tall buildings, public works, new apartments, scientific advancement, artistic appreciation and equality of races and classes.

The Information Bulletin was a reflection of the psychology of inferiority which has impelled Russia's political hierarchy into extremes of thought and action. It takes no imagination to believe that the principal motivation of many Russian policies is to prove to the world—and to Russians, themselves—that the curse of national backwardness is being lifted.

The question always has been whether or not this was being done at the expense of inflicting a heavier curse of political oppression not only for Russians but for their neighbors threatened by the terrorism of a dictatorship with no tolerance for the dignity of man. After a third of a century, the answer is still negative. There can be no real progress, material or otherwise, at the expense of man.

Bargain-Rate Spying

The young British radio operator sentenced in London recently to five years in prison for passing secret diplomatic information to the Soviet Union might ponder his fate had he been a Russian tried in a Moscow court for betraying the Communist party dictatorship.

A sympathetic jury—perhaps too sympathetic a jury—of Britons felt that the young man had been "led astray." It recommended the "utmost leniency."

What would be proper punishment for individuals who betray and imperil their families, friends, society and governments?

Just two years ago, German-born Klaus Fuchs, to whom England had given refuge from Nazi Germany, received only a 14-year term for handing over to Moscow atomic secrets which someday may bring about destruction of the vulnerable British Isles.

How much sympathy can anyone feel for these pathetic creatures of the free world who sell or give their lives and souls to the atheistic Kremlin . . . for the Rosenbergs who face execution, leaving two children behind, or for Judy Coplon who apparently is going to evade punishment on a technicality of procedure?

In a day when there were fewer crimes against society and fewer confusions in the minds of men, spying and treason were punishable by death. The courts should keep in mind when sentencing wayward youths who were "led astray" that the price of their aberration might be the wanton slaughter of millions of human beings who refused to be led astray.

Experience

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Not A Pre-Requisite For 'Best President'

Many people have written in to ask this writer just what is meant by the word "experience" as a qualification for the presidency of the United States.

So far as experience in national or international affairs is concerned, very few men who are candidates for the presidency have a knowledge of the executive branch of the government.

Looking back at past presidents, there were plenty of them who had good records of "experience" on paper but who didn't make good in the White House.

The most conspicuous instance of this is the case of William Howard Taft, Republican, who had served as secretary of war in the cabinet, as governor general of the Philippines, as a federal court judge, and who was supposed to know more about government than anybody else who had been a candidate up to that time. "Experience" was one of the principal arguments in his behalf in the 1908 campaign, which he won by a landslide.

BUT IT DIDN'T take long for the Taft administration to go on the rocks because its leader lacked a knowledge of the psychology of the times, otherwise known as "political judgment." He failed to discern the progressive movement that was rising in the country, he signed a tariff bill which he later admitted had an important schedule of rates which were "indefensible."

Then there is the case of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, Democrat, who had had only two years of experience in the governorship. The rest of his life had been spent in collegiate and academic work. Yet he became a great president and directed America's affairs through World War I.

Another case is that of Herbert Hoover, Republican, who was elected to the presidency of the United States without ever having run for any office before, either of a major or minor character. He had been in the Coolidge cabinet and he had served as a food administrator and relief administrator in wartime. But none of this "experience" fitted him to deal with the worst economic depression in American history.

ANOTHER INSTANCE is that of Warren Harding, Republican whose only experience was in the senate of the United States. He, like Harry Truman, Democrat, never had the slightest knowledge of administrative affairs before being elected to the presidency.

Theodore Roosevelt, Republican, had been an assistant secretary of the navy and for a short time governor of New York before he came to the White House. He had had very little experience in handling national problems. But he made a good president.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, had been governor of New York, but he had had absolutely no experience with national problems.

Garner Picks Barkley

By RAYMOND MOLEY

The moment, it seems, has arrived to quote a man who for many years has kept his silence on Democratic affairs. That man is the former vice president who served the first two terms under President Roosevelt, John Nance Garner.

"Mr. Garner," as he is called even by his own son, is living in quiet retirement at his home in Uvalde, Texas. He is 83 years young. He reads copiously, and his clear, high, strong voice, so well known in Washington for nearly 40 years, is as good as ever. His mind is sharp, and his expressions of political philosophy are rich and wise.

On April 30th I paid my annual visit to him at his home. He talked of many things, and finally, the subject of the next Democratic presidential candidate came up. A year before when I saw him, he had made the shrewd prediction that President Truman would not run again. A month before my visit this year, President Truman had verified the Garner prediction.

In our discussion, the name of the vice president, Alben Barkley, came up. Then, much to my surprise, Mr. Garner said that I might quote him, whenever I thought it wise, that he considered Barkley "the best qualified and the logical man to cement the Democratic party." It seems to me that this is the right time to take Mr. Garner at his word.

There is a large amount of evidence and logic to support the Garner opinion. But before I mention that, permit me to dispose of the quick reaction of the reader that "he is too old."

Yes, Barkley will be 75 years old on November 24th. Most men would avoid the presidency at such an age, and there may be enough delegates who believe he is too old to block his nomination. But there are other considerations some of which are rational and some of which are merely political.

He is, after all, three years younger than Winston Churchill. There are many instances of men older than Barkley who have successfully administered the affairs of state. He says he feels well and wants the job. And he seems to be all right.

The clinching answer is political. Delegates to the Democratic convention indicated in 1944 that they except the Navy, of which he was assistant secretary in World War I. In fact, when he came to the White House, he had a very definite prejudice against centralized government, which was derived from his experience in state affairs. He quickly changed his viewpoint and became the greatest exponent of an enlarged central government that America has seen.

The question is not how much "experience" a man has who comes to the White House, but what is his basic knowledge of human relationships, and what is his judgment on human affairs, and above all, what is his character and how much integrity he has.

The biggest problem before the American government today is international relations involving both military and economic cooperation with Europe and the rest of the free world. It's the largest item in the budget.

THE NEXT biggest problem involves the adjustment of rival and conflicting groups in the national president effective in developing economy—a task that requires the utmost tact and yet persistence in harmonizing and reconciling persons of opposite viewpoints.

The particular talent which makes a President effective in developing public policies is not related to how many years he has been intimately identified with government as such or how much he knows of the technical side of government. It is primarily related to the kind of personality the man has and how well he can get along with people.

Few men in current history have had the opportunity that General Eisenhower has had to participate in such large affairs of government as the organization of the Allied invasion of Normandy. The problem was not just military, but involved delicate relationships with allied government as well as administrative duties of a far-reaching nature. It was the Eisenhower personality which enabled the job to be done with the minimum amount of friction between allies.

WHEN THE TIME CAME to organize the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, General Eisenhower was called to that post just because it was primarily a military job but because it involved again diplomatic relationships with other governments.

The presidents who have had considerable "experience" have often not made good, whereas many who have not had "experience" have been among our best presidents.

Perhaps the best illustration is that of Abraham Lincoln. He came to the White House after only one term in the Congress of the United States and without previous knowledge or experience with the Washington scene. His personality, his patience, his understanding of human relationships meant more than mere administrative "experience."

were not much concerned about actuarial matters. Their rule is to nominate a man for the presidency who can be elected and a vice-presidential candidate who can take over "if anything happens." There are many other shrewd Democratic politicians who not only agree that Barkley is "best qualified," but who believe that he will be the nominee. I am, however, concerned with availability, not prediction.

No one in sight could so conclusively prevent a southern revolt. Remember that those who will control the action of most southern states are senators or former senators. And no one in a generation has been more loved and respected than Barkley in the Senate. He comes from a border state. He is neither ultra-left nor ultra-right. He knows more about government than all the rest of the possibilities combined. Why not Barkley?

Turnabout

The Two-Party System

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

During the era of Kingship by Divine Right, the political party did not exist. The King employed the men he liked and exiled or beheaded when they no longer served his pleasure. Henry VIII, Mary, Elizabeth, the Stuarts and Cromwell pursued the gentle art of official murder to accomplish their political ends. The essence of a two-party system is that men may differ without fear. Loyalty must be as unquestioned in the opposition as in the government. The importation into England of the German House of Hanover facilitated the development of political parties in England, not only the party of the King's men, but of the opposition, because the early Hanoverians knew no English and disliked the country. In this, Walpole, the Two Pitts, Peel and subsequently Disraeli and Gladstone played crucial roles.

Because of this political development, the opposition could scrutinize and criticize government without physical danger. And as this system grew, the King lost much of his power, the parties exchanging power without regard for royal preference.

EVEN BEFORE the United States was formed, two parties came into existence, the Federalists and the Democratic-Republicans, led respectively by Alexander Hamilton and Thomas Jefferson. Hamilton believed in a strong, central government with vast powers over the people; Jefferson believed that that government governs best which governs least.

Both parties united on George Washington as our first President, but they split sharply during his administration and broke into violent antagonisms during the administration of his successor, John Adams. From then on, the two-party system has become structurally a part of the American political system and all attempts at deviation from it have failed.

The real difficulty, however, has been to keep the parties distinct and different. In Great Britain, a political party is a national institution, organized on a membership basis, with responsible officials to sit in parliament. In the United States, the political party is a state institution, organized under the state election laws, which vary widely.

The state characteristic of the political party was increased by the sectionalism during the approach of the Civil War. The Democratic party on the Eastern seaboard in the North could not agree with the southern Democrats: The Whig party was divided between the "Conscience Whigs" under Daniel Webster and the "Cotton Whigs" under Henry Clay.

THE AFTERMATH of the Civil War stimulated sectionalism within the parties. The Republicans had been organized at Ripon, Wisconsin, in 1854 and elected Abraham Lincoln in 1860. The Whigs disappeared. In the northern states, a Democrat was not favorably regarded. The Republican party might have had followers in both North and South, were it not for the shame of reconstruction, with its carpet-baggers and disgusting profiteers. The result of Republican misconduct during the reconstruction period is the "Solid South," a group of states south of the Mason and Dixon line where, for practical purposes, only one party exists, the Democratic party.

It Could Happen Again

By TRUMAN TWILL

This is only a half-formed suspicion, but men once get themselves so mixed up in arguments which couldn't be settled that they lost themselves in the Dark Ages.

While they were fumbling in the darkness of that period, they were deadlocked over numerous issues. The catch was that the issues had no bearing on their welfare. They were quibbling for the sake of quibbling.

The half-formed suspicion is that the same thing may be happening again. There are always with us those whose bread and butter is argumentation. They keep the bread and butter coming by getting their fellow men endlessly and hopelessly involved in disputation, a game they are able to dominate because they know most about it.

It is as easy to understand this when it occurs in broad, public affairs as it is when it occurs in narrow, private affairs. Hundreds of thousands of marriages have been broken up and families ruined because the parties involved bickered for the sake of bickering. They enjoyed it. They were good at it.

But too much of it finally blinded them to the realities of their own welfare. They ruined themselves. It can happen just that way in industrial disputes. It can happen in politics, in clashes between minorities, in struggles for advantage between competitors.

One of its most grotesque forms is the feud, in which the participants destroy one another because of animosities growing out of disputes long since forgotten. Nevertheless, they continue to kill one another to keep the other side from being able to claim the upper hand.

In the North and the growing West, the Republican party prevailed from Abraham Lincoln to Woodrow Wilson (1861-1913), with the two interludes of Grover Cleveland. This party was conservative and constructive and during its administration the country grew and prospered. However, several forces developed in American life which weakened the Republican party.

1. The shift from rural to urban population, the tendency in the big cities being for the new immigrants, from the Irish and Germans to the Italians and Greeks, a loud speaker;

2. The shift ideologically in the United States from the British type of government by chosen representatives in a two-party system, the representatives voting their consciences rather than public opinion, to a continental European concept of democracy, in which the voice of the people is the voice of God, the deity being symbolized by a loud speaker;

3. The increased desire of our people for a government guaranteed security even to the extent of sacrificing liberty for security;

4. The fragmentation of our population along racial, religious and cultural lines with a tendency to lessen the processes of Americanization for several generations.

These trends crossed party lines, so that the two parties in the Roosevelt and Truman regimes became catch-alls, vehicles for elections, platforms for self-promotion rather than ideological bases for diverse political concepts. And this brings us to the July conventions in which the split is within each party as much as between the parties.

Once Over

By H. L. PHILLIPS

Who Else But Harry?

The Democrats have their work cut out in plans for the convention. In fact, it's a "project." They have got to find a candidate who can make a loser out of one of the most famous winners in history. The task is to prevent Ike Eisenhower from making a victorious landing along the Potomac. What a spot they're in! Their former top fighting general is the guy they have got to lick. The Democrats may need NATO more than Europe does.

This column is still betting that Harry Truman has to defend the beachheads. Who else among the Democratic candidates looks like a road block against Eisenhower? Ike has fame as a successful fighter, he is a two-fisted scrapper, he has terrific homespun personality and, on top of all this, he survived the first Abilene speech in the rain with his hair on end. Where do Harriman, Kefauver, Kerr, Russell, Stevenson, Barkley or MacMahon fit into a setup like that? Averell has plenty on the ball, but can you picture him in the ring against Ike, even with his own artillery support? Kefauver? It could be "The Tennessee Waltz" versus "Over There," "Pistol Packin' Mommer," "Thow' em Down, McCluskey" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

ESTES LEAPED into fame through video, but against Ike he would be up against a man who would never refuse to answer a question on the advice of council, or insist that only his fingers be telecast. Stevenson? If he gives up that secure spot out of the war zone in Chicago to prove he is a better fighter than Eisenhower he's not as smart as we think. Russell? A fine man, but what armies did he ever lick? Alben Barkley? Nice fellow, too. But who can figure a Kentucky bridegroom taking a single round from the Abilene Kid? MacMahon? Not even with atomic energy.

Bob Kerr, the millionaire oil man? How would he look in there against the leader of "Operation Overboard," the head of Columbia, the father of NATO and the winner of the Republican nomination on the first ballot despite the fact that he looked like a man trying out on some amateur night program? Yes, Harry Truman will have to be yanked away from the piano and be the one "in the purple trunks" when the big fight rolls around.

Look at the advantages the Republicans have already . . . We offer the slogan, "Ike and Nix, the ticket that ticks!" . . . Take the first letters of each name and they spell "IN." . . . Nixon is so young the banners could even read "Eisenhower and The Children's Hour." . . . (The Democratic convention had better be good, and so had the candidates.)

LINES TO A THOROUGHbred

(The three-year-old 1951 Preakness winner, Bold, was found dead today in the field, struck by lightning.)—News item.

Lifeless and stark upon a field of green, Dead in a pasture touched by summer rain, Here's hoping that the end was, oh, so fleet, Untouched by terror or by depth of pain!

The thunder seemed, I hope, another sound. . . The roar of race fans as you made your bid. . . And, as the lightning flashed, I trust it came Like bugles, bringing joy as oft it did.

A race horse, still and done for, saddens all, But I see just a shell that's lying there. . . And I like to think, heads up, you heard a bell And romped to joy that only stalwarts share.

Bill O'Dwyer may stay in Mexico and go into the radio and television industry there. If he runs a puppet show, Estes Kefauver will play the dragon.

Merry Mates Gather At Copacia's Lake

Twenty-five couples, members of the Merry Mates of St. Paul Catholic Church, met Thursday evening at Copacia's Lake.

Rev. Fr. Edward Varble introduced two new couples to the group, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jarrett and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Less. Robert Bricker, club president, presided at the business meeting.

A wiener roast and supper were enjoyed. Dancing and games were also diversions for the evening. The door prize was won by Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Pink, and special prizes were awarded to Mrs. Frank Dutko, Mrs. Anthony DeCrow, Anthony Marino and John Less.

The couples in charge of the program were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loutzenhiser, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Green, Mr. and Mrs. Michael DeCrow, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Marino, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Harroff and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hanney. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cusack of Columbus were guests. They are visiting relatives in Salem. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Botts are chairmen for the next meeting, August 21.

Presbyterian Class Has Picnic Outing

A record attendance highlighted the meeting of members and guests of the Presbyterian Forum Class Thursday evening in the pavilion at Centennial Park. Among the guests were Chaplain and Mrs. George S. Wilson, former pastor of the church and his family.

One hundred and six were seated for the picnic supper. Chairmen of the social committee were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilhelm, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Evas Lipp and Mrs. Brownie Tepsic. Horse shoes, tennis and games entertained following supper.

Russell Pearson presided at the business session when plans were discussed for a joint meeting in the fall with members of the Methodist Fellowship Class. An Indian missionary will be heard at that time, August 21 is the next meeting date.

SILHOUETTE CONTRAST MARKS Fall coat designs, from the full and flaring to the close and fitted. Seymour Fox shows the new tulip silhouette (left) in a three-quarter wrap coat of hairy wool in anthracite gray. The circle coat (center) by Monte-Sano is in soft

"seal-cloth" wool in flame red. The line is fluid, the weight is light, and the tapering sleeves, worn pushed up, seem a part of the yoke. The flaring silhouette (right) as done by Seymour Fox is in a red-and-blue mixture of loop tweed. Sleeves are inset.

Meaning Of Legion Auxiliary Discussed

Discussing the meaning of the American Legion auxiliary and goals for which members should strive, Mrs. Lester Nimon, department treasurer, addressed 250 delegates and members of the 10th District American Legion Auxiliary summer convention Wednesday at Minerva.

The ten delegates and members attending from Salem included Mrs. William Needham, Mrs. Clyde Dole, Mrs. William Sheen, Mrs. L. W. Sanders, Mrs. Kenneth Harsh, Mrs. Henry Schultz, Mrs. R. W. Broomall, Mrs. G. W. Sechler, Mrs. Chester Kridler and Mrs. W. A. Helm. Mrs. Ray S. Crosky of Carrollton, district president, presided over the convention.

A tea was given by the Minerva women following the meeting. A special session of the local chapter is called for Tuesday, July 22, at the Legion home. New county council officers will be installed when members meet for a picnic at Firestone Park, pavilion 4 Monday, July 28.

FLOWERS ON EXHIBIT

An arrangement made by Mrs. Russell Smith, president of the Salem Garden Club, is on exhibit at the garden center in the library. The Garden Club women will have arrangements regularly in the library as practice for the Garden of Friendship show scheduled for Aug. 14 in the Masonic Temple.

Truman Given Final Tests

President Will Leave Hospital Tomorrow

WASHINGTON — President Truman's doctor gave him the last of a series of medical tests today while Democratic politicians waited impatiently for his dismissal from the hospital.

After nearly a week's bout with a virus infection, the President's temperature had returned to normal, but Democratic presidential aspirants could not boast as much with the Chicago National Convention opening Monday.

Truman expects to return to the White House tomorrow, but there is no indication that he plans to make known his choice of a successor in advance of the balloting. Such a move on his part could be the deciding factor in selection of the Democratic nominee.

Most of the people around Truman profess to be in the dark. Even Cabinet members are button-holing reporters asking them, "what is the boss going to do?" And Truman's own alternate to the Democratic convention, the man who will cast his vote, was unable to see the President during a trip to Washington this week.

Tom J. Gavin of Kansas City apparently was en route home without getting an audience with the President because of Truman's illness and his subsequent trip to the Army's Walter Reed Hospital for a complete checkup.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told reporters that "to the best of my knowledge" Gavin did not talk with the President and that he knew Gavin did not see Truman personally.

Truman plans to fly to Chicago next week to address the closing session of the convention.

Collins' Ninth Inning Homer Drops Tribe Into Third Place

Brooklyn Wins 35 Of 36 Games Against Bottom Three Teams

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Never give a sucker an even break."

Chuck Dressen is playing the old P. T. Barnum line on his Brooklyn callopie to flim flam the poor downtrodden brethren of the National League.

Against the bottom three clubs the Dodgers perform with the finesse of a shell game operator at a fireman's carnival. Maybe the boys will catch on before the show leaves town but it's getting late.

The Brooks have won 35 of 36 games—a glittering .972 pace—against Boston, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, the 6th, 7th and 8th place clubs. Against the rest of the league, they're playing just .500 ball with 21 wins and 21 defeats.

It isn't always easy. Yesterday it took 11 innings at Cincinnati before Carl Furillo finally broke it up with a run-scoring single, 2-1.

Brooklyn now has a 12-1 record against the Reds, 13-0 against Boston and 10-0 against Pittsburgh, tonight's opponent.

The Dodger lead measured six full games after Max Lanier walked Enos Slaughter with the bases loaded and the score tied in the last of the ninth for a 3-2 St. Louis Card victory over the New York Giants.

Lanier, who walked 11, gave the Cards their first run when he walked Del Rice with the bases loaded in the first.

Indians, Yanks Split

The "big" American League series at Yankee Stadium ended with New York and Cleveland splitting a twilight-night doubleheader. As the Yanks took the series 3-2, they added a full game to their lead, now measuring 4½ games.

Joe Collins' ninth inning home run off reliever Bob Lemon gave the Yanks the 5-4 second game, dropping the Indians into third place, two percentage points behind Boston. Collins' smash, barely inside the right field foul line, came a few minutes after Barney McCosky's pinch hit homer, his first of the season, tied the score in the top of the ninth. But Vic Raschi steadied to go the route for his 10th victory.

Allie Reynolds, who had pitched 18 complete games since last Sept. 14, finally was knocked out of the box in the twilight game, won by Cleveland, 11-6. The Tribe rocked Allie for six runs and six hits in the first two innings and rolled up 15 hits in all, including a homer and triple by Larry Doby.

All Yank runs in the opener came on homers by Mickey Mantle, Johnny Mize and Collins.

Shantz Wins 16th

Little Bobby Shantz turned in a six-hitter for Philadelphia against the St. Louis Browns to win his 16th, 3-1, in the second game of a two-night doubleheader. The Browns won the opener, 9-5, when pitcher Tommy Byrne hit two singles, a double and a homer.

Spec Shea, a spectacular success at Washington since he was discarded by the Yankees, shut out Detroit with five hits and scored down his sixth straight victory and ninth of the year by singling in the last of the ninth, taking second on Eddie Yost's bunt and scoring on Jim Busby's sharp single.

Boston didn't know it was taking over second place when it squeezed past Chicago, 2-1, in the American's only day game. Sammy White's home run and George Kell's run-scoring double were enough to win with the help of an effective ninth inning relief job by Ray Scarborough.

Down in the second division of the National, the big noise was provided by Pittsburgh's sweep of a doubleheader with Philadelphia, 2-1 and 4-2.

Vern Bickford drove home the only run with a seventh-inning single in Boston's 1-0 edge over Chicago's Paul Minner. Bickford allowed seven hits to break his personal four-game losing streak to the Cubs.

32 Golfers Remain In Ohio Tourney

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Thirty-two golfers from 13 cities banged into second round matches of the 46th Ohio Amateur golf championship today.

Columbus had 11 survivors, including medalist Danny Carmichael, after Thursday's first man-to-man clashes over Columbus Country Club's 6761-yard course.

Cleveland was next with six, headed by former champion Ed Preisler; Youngstown boasted three, including defending champion Tom Jones and highly-rated Bob McCall; Mansfield and Zanesville two each, with single representatives from Gallipolis, Lancaster, Ravenna, Dayton, Cincinnati, Alliance, Toledo and East Liver pool.

Today's pair of matches will slash the field to eight. Some par-shattering performances marked Thursday's first round frays as favorites dominated play and upsets were few. Art Todd, Columbus public star, was five under the par as he smothered Ted Katula, Ohio State football end, 6 and 4.

Earl Hamilton of Columbus, A. I. Davey Jr. of Cleveland and McCall were four under, Don Albert of Alliance birdied four of the last five to finish three under the card, and Dr. John Lorms and George Smith of Columbus were two under all won easy verdicts.

Carmichael meets Columbusite Barney Hunt, a seasoned campaigner and former public link chump in today's second round, while champion Jones tallies with Howard Saunders of Gallipolis.

The two teams tallied double runs in the fourth inning but went scoreless in the other frames.

Harshman and Phillips twirled for the locals, striking out 14 men between them. Jones also had a large strikeout record of ten.

Salem scored their runs in the fourth inning when Platt walked, Bryan singled, and Swartz also singled. Atwater tied the score in the bottom of the inning when Morris walked, Jones bunted out one of his two triples and Counts doubled.

Harshman then was lifted in favor of Phillips and the latter put out the fire by striking out the next three batters.

Make Big Catch

Two Salem men are telling a big fish story and they have a picture to prove its authenticity.

Edward Jefferies of E. Fourth St. and his brother, Bert of Liberty St., were vacationing at Beverly on the Muskingum River recently and spent most of the time fishing. They caught a catfish which measured 42½ inches long and weighed 36 pounds. This is reputed to be the largest fish caught at Beverly this year.

Earl Hamilton of Columbus, A. I. Davey Jr. of Cleveland and McCall were four under, Don Albert of Alliance birdied four of the last five to finish three under the card, and Dr. John Lorms and George Smith of Columbus were two under all won easy verdicts.

Indians Capture First Game, 11-6

Red Sox Second; Jones Hurls Tonight

BOSTON (AP)—Loser in their try to gain on the league-leading New York Yankees, the Cleveland Indians now must fight for second place, starting tonight in Fenway Park with the opener of a three-game series with the Boston Red Sox.

A two-night doubleheader split in Yankee Stadium Thursday night—the Tribe winning the opener 11-6 and losing the finale 5-4—enabled Boston to take over second place by two percentage points.

Sam Jones will pitch for Cleveland tonight against lefty Maury McDermott, who has a 5-4 record against Jones' 2-3.

A home run by Joe Collins with two out and none on the last of the ninth in the second game Thursday night kept Cleveland from cutting the Yanks' lead by two full games from the 4½ game margin they now enjoy.

It was the 10th round-tripper for Collins and it came off Bob Lemon who hurled the final inning and was charged with the defeat.

Mike Garcia, who started the game, went out in the eighth for pinch hitter Barney McCosky who belted a homer that tied the score at 4-4.

The other three runs by Cleveland were bunched in the fourth inning, which opened with New York ahead 3-0. Larry Doby homered for the first run of the rally, and Garcia doubled home Harry Simpson and Jim Hegan, who had singled. Outside of the fourth frame, Vic Raschi allowed the Tribe only six hits in winning his 10th against two losses.

Garcia, nicked for 10 hits in eight innings, yielded two runs in the second inning. Yogi Berra and Gene Woodling singled, and McDougald scored Berra with a double. An intentional walk filled the bases, and a pitched ball hit Phil Rizzuto's hand, forcing in a run.

A double by Berra, a wild pitch and Mickey Mantle's single added another Yank marker in the third. Rizzuto scored on Collins' single in the fourth after he had reached first on an infield single and made second by booting the ball from Merrill Combs' glove.

In the first game, the Indians led all the way, piling up a 6-0 advantage in their first two times at bat and driving Allie Reynolds from the mound for the first time this season.

Bob Avila tripled home the first run, scored the second on a ground out, singled home the fourth marker and tallied the fifth on Dale Mitchell's single. Steve Gromek, the winning pitcher, contributed a run-scoring single just ahead of Avila's and also tallied on Mitch's base blow.

Mickey Mantle slammed Gromek for a homer in the second, and Collins clubbed him for a three-run homer in the third, but the Indians added four more to their margin in the fourth—two on a single by Al Rosen and two on a triple by Doby.

Palmer Holds Canadian Open Four-Stroke Lead

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — Johnny Palmer held a four-stroke lead today in the Canadian Open Golf Tournament after setting a competitive record for the St. Charles Golf and Country Club course.

The 34-year-old Badin, N. C., pro shot a dazzling seven-under-par 65 yesterday in the second round of the 72-hole event to give him a score of 131.

Palmer's opening day 66 also broke the course record of 67 set three years ago by Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn.

On Palmer's heels for $3,000 first money in the $15,000 race was another American, Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., with 66-69 — 135.

In close pursuit with scores of 136 were Roberto de Vicenzo of Buenos Aires, 69-67;

Wall Street Stock Prices Sag In Quiet Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices sagged listlessly today in a quiet stock market.

Losses were mostly small—fractions to around a point—and there were occasional plus signs to brace the list.

Trading stepped ahead at a pace a bit better than a million shares for a full day.

Lower stocks included Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Southern Pacific, Goodrich, Allied Chemical, General Electric, and Radio Corp. Higher were American Woolen, Sears Roebuck, and International Nickel.

1865 Women's Style Magazine Describes Clothing Fashions

Summer styles in women's apparel now in the fashion limelight are marked by simplicity.

For an interesting comparison to the elaborate dresses worn by women in the summer of 1865 turn to the fashion section of the May issue of Godey's Lady's book, the leading woman's magazine of that period published by Louis A. Godey at Philadelphia and edited by Mr. Godey and Mrs. Sarah J. Hale.

All the dresses pictured are floor length, have high necklines and long coat type sleeves. Cut skirts were in great favor for organdies and other wash goods. A description of a cut skirt is as follows: "The skirt is cut off just below the knee, and two extra breadths are allowed for the lower part. The upper edge of the lower half of the skirt is hemmed, a cord is run in to form a ruffle, and the deep flounce is then ready to finish the skirt."

"For rich silks made with double skirts the latest style is to have the bodice and upper skirt in one piece. They are gored to fit the waist without pleats, and are exceedingly wide around the edge of the skirt."

TALL WOMEN WORE round bodices with wide waistbands and buckles, but short women were warned to avoid this design, because it had the effect of shortening the waist. Cords and tassels were used on many of the sleeves.

One style of trimming for running around the skirt was a border of linked horseshoes, cut out of silk or velvet, with nails in the shoes represented by large buttons. Loops of ribbon formed into a fan was another style of skirt trimming.

Organdies and "piquis" were beautiful in colors and designs. They were light green, China blue, Russia leather color, maize and violet striped with white. Some were figured with lovers knots, feathers, diamonds, bouquets, horseshoes, butterflies, bugs and birds.

Gloves worn by the women of 1865 were very light in shades.

quite high on the wrist and finished with a pinked scallop.

COMMENTING ON headress the editor says, "What we should term the horse-tail style has been adopted by a few young women, and we are happy to say but a very few, for evening wear. The front hair is either rolled or dressed a la Pompadour, and the back is tied with a bright ribbon, and allowed to fall unrestrained over the shoulders. Flowing locks read well in poetry, and sometimes look well in a picture, but for an evening party they are positively disgraceful." Novelities for the hair consisted of bows and curls of spun gold; also humming birds, flies and snow-white butterflies striped with scarlet or gold.

Bonnets were mere half handkerchiefs trimmed with flowers and ribbons, the fashionist reported.

This magazine was also noted for its stories, needlework patterns, recipes and household hints. The contrast in recipes is almost as great as that in clothes. This one appeared in Godey's issues of June, 1867: "To make good vinegar—One pint of strained honey and two gallons of soft water. Let it stand in a moderately warm place. In three weeks it will be excellent vinegar."

MRS. HALE is reputed to be the first woman editor in the United States and held her position with Godey's for more than 40 years.

The Godey's Lady's books for this story were loaned by Mrs. Chester Isaly of Columbiana, who has a rare collection of antiques.

Name most any design in a trivet and you can find it among the 300 which lend colonial charm to the kitchen and breakfast nook at Mrs. Isaly's home. A trivet is an iron or brass three-legged stand for holding a heated iron or cooking vessel in a fireplace. With more or less intricate patterns of pierced foliage, they were made by the early colonists. Among her designs are the fire department, tree of life, oak leaf, dove birds, turtle, eagle, harp, horse, shoe and those honoring Jennie Lind, the Masonic order and Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Isaly also has a collection of small china lamps, many beautiful pieces in various colored glass, and a few unusual dolls.

Southern delegations over the action of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia in denouncing the Taft-Hartley Act.

Russell added to the controversy by saying in a televised news conference last night that he sees no reason why he couldn't support President Truman for re-election — in the unlikely event Truman runs.

Kerr Claims Support

Barkley arrives on the scene today, along with Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, who claims he has more second choice support for the presidential nomination than any of his rivals.

Their arrivals will complete the roster of major candidates. Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Averell Harriman of New York, the mutual security administrator, already have staked out their victory claims here, along with Russell.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, who has shunned the nomination the others are scrambling for, invited all Democratic governors to breakfast with him here Monday in advance of a scheduled welcoming address to the convention.

Stevenson has insisted he is running only for re-election as governor and Arvey's reported switch to Barkley was in line with the Illinois committeeman's public pronouncements that he has given up hope of getting the governor into the presidential contest.

May Appeal to Governor

There remained the possibility, however, that the Barkley support might take the form of a holding action — with an appeal to Stevenson possible if the convention ties itself in a knot after seven or eight ballots.

Russell's political pass at the Truman camp surprised and angered Dixie leaders who originally had nudged him into the race as the anti-Truman candidate of the South.

Some Southern reaction to Russell's proposal to "supplant" Taft-Hartley with another labor law came close to political violence.

Former Gov. William M. Tucker, who was ready to laud Russell's candidacy before the Virginia Democratic Convention at Roanoke, cut out of a prepared speech all reference to Russell's name.

And Sen. Harry S. Byrd commented that he just didn't understand Russell's about-face on a law the Georgian voted to enact over President Truman's veto. Byrd said he still wants to support Russell however.

The Virginia convention, which had been set to endorse Russell, significantly voted to leave uninvited its 28-vote delegation to the convention here.

Russell insisted, however, he did not interpret that action as meaning he had lost all Virginia votes. Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas told reporters he wasn't going to let Russell's move on the labor front interfere with his support of the Georgia senator, adding: "I wouldn't expect him to agree with me in every detail."

It began to look as though the anti-Truman elements in the South had lost their champion.

Certainly if they bolted over the choice of a nominee who was not to their liking, or tried a third party move after a losing convention battle over civil rights, Russell would not be with them.

Russell said emphatically his party loyalty "is above reproach."

If Russell made any important headway with organized labor it wasn't immediately apparent.

Jack Kroll, head of the CIO's Political Action Committee, told a reporter he wasn't impressed by the Russell switch. Kroll's comment: "We've been kidded by experts for years. We prefer to go by the voting records."

CIO President Philip Murray was due in town today along with a number of other top CIO leaders.

Hanoverton Doctor Committee Meets

At a meeting of the Hanoverton New Doctor Committee Wednesday evening in the Hanoverton Christian Church, Chairman Howard W. Hart expressed appreciation to members of the Hanover Township Volunteer Fire Department for sponsoring the successful festival to aid the Civic Benefit Fund project.

The total of actual money derived from the benefit is not available, according to Richard Speidel, president of the Fire Department Trustees, but the proceeds will divide equally between the Civic Benefit Fund and the Fire Department when tabulations are complete.

Hanoverton is seeking a doctor to take over the practice of Dr. H. J. Pelley, who has practiced there for a half-century.

The Civic Benefit Fund was helped recently by two other organizations. The Ladies Aid Society of the Hanoverton Christian Church, through the secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth N. Rush, announced a gift of $104.35 to the fund and Arthur Kibler, president of the Hanoverton Homecoming Association announced the association's contribution of $50.

A nominating committee was appointed to pick a slate for the election of new officers for the Civic Benefit Fund, the election to take place at the next meeting, Thursday, Aug. 7.

India herself was born in Chicago. She grew up in Nashville and was educated in St. Louis. She was on the staff of the Chicago Tribune for 22 years as reporter, society editor and woman's page editor.

By an odd quirk, former Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, Connecticut Republican, recruited India unwittingly as an active worker for the Democrats.

Over the radio she heard the 1944 Republican convention address by Mrs. Luce in which she spoke for GI Jim, the gold-star buddy of GI Joe. Mrs. Edwards' only son by her first marriage had been killed in the war. Mrs. Luce's speech shocked her.

The next morning she went down to Democratic headquarters and volunteered for work.

what is a drug store?

THE DRUG STORE is but one unit in a complex pattern of businesses and professions, all of which serve the needs of the community. But it is unique in that pharmacy is both a business and a profession.

A business built on service to the sick cannot be restricted to usual "business hours." The need for medicine and sickroom supplies is usually immediate and urgent. In times of widespread illness, the twenty-four-hour day seems all too short. We are ready, day or night, to serve the pharmaceutical needs of the community.
